

Jennifer Lucero, M.D.

Assistant Professor of Pediatrics
Anesthesia/Perioperative Care
Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Sciences

Biography

Dr. Jennifer Lucero is a physician-scientist who received her medical degree at Yale School of Medicine and then completed training in both Obstetrics/Gynecology and Anesthesia at UCSF. After her anesthesia training, she spent two years completing both an obstetric anesthesia and NIH research fellowship.

She is both a member of the Obstetric Anesthesia and Fetal Anesthesia team and is actively investigating the maternal end-organ effects of preeclampsia. Given Dr. Lucero's training she has been involved in fetal surgeries and management as both an obstetrician and anesthesiologist.
